

Round-headed bush clover

Lespedeza capitata

Drought-tolerant, nitrogen-fixing, this plant is a high-value wildlife plant and is a host plant for butterflies, a forage plant, a nectar plant for pollinators and seeds are eaten by birds and small mammals.

Bloom Season:	Mid Summer - Mid Fall
Flower Colors:	White
Soil Tolerance:	Clay, Sandy, Dry, Well drained
Height: 2-4 feet	Spread: 1-3 feet

PERENNIAL

