

Round-headed bush clover

Lespedeza capitata

Drought-tolerant, nitrogen-fixing, this plant is a high-value wildlife plant and is a host plant for butterflies, a forage plant, a nectar plant for pollinators and seeds are eaten by birds and small mammals.

Bloom Season: Mid Summer - Mid Fall

Flower Colors: White

Soil Tolerance: Clay, Sandy, Dry, Well drained

Height: 2-4 feet Spread: 1-3 feet

PERENNIAL

https://db.linpi.org/leca